Ready for your next step? SPEA will give you a boost

Graduate studies at SPEA IUPUI will prepare you to take the next step in your career or dive deeper into subjects that fascinate you. And SPEA's graduate programs in public affairs and criminal justice are consistently ranked among the nation's best by U.S. News and World Report.

Students in SPEA's programs benefit from their studies immediately by studying alongside peers who are working in Central Indiana businesses, agencies and nonprofits. Your classmates bring first-hand knowledge and insight to a robust, relevant curriculum (not to mention valuable networking).

You'll also benefit from associations with SPEA faculty members and researchers. They combine professional experience with scholarship and public service, so you will gain both the practical and philosophical knowledge you'll need to succeed.

And for students learning how to make a difference in business, government and nonprofits, what better place to study than Indiana's capital city, where such organizations are headquartered? IUPUI is just a short walk or ride from bustling city, state and federal government centers as well as hundreds of corporations and nonprofit organizations. Internships, mentors and active learning opportunities are right around the corner.

We're eager to meet with you!

Have questions about graduate school, financial aid, admission requirements, the GRE, IUPUI or SPEA? We're happy to answer them. We can give you a tour, and introduce you to current SPEA grad students and faculty members. Visit us in person, online or by phone.

Degrees to help you meet your goals

SPEA Indianapolis offers many choices for graduate studies:

- Master of Public Affairs, a 48-hour program with five concentrations—Urban Sustainability, Criminal Justice, Nonprofit Management, Policy Analysis and Public Management

- Master of Science in Criminal Justice and Public Safety, a 36-hour program in which you can choose to focus on Criminal Justice or Public Safety. People working in the field may qualify for up to 6 hours of mid-career credit

- Master of Public Affairs – Doctor of Jurisprudence joint degree

- Master of Public Affairs – Master of Arts in Philanthropic Studies joint degree

- Five certificates, in Nonprofit Management; Public Management; Homeland Security and Emergency Management; Social Entrepreneurship; and Executive Certificate in Library Management.

Certificates are a great way to sample SPEA's offerings and launch your graduate studies, because credit earned in a certificate program may be applied to a master's degree.

Experiences that suit your needs, build your resume, broaden your reach

Many SPEA graduate students are juggling full-time jobs, family demands, volunteer work and their studies. Others have left the workforce to pursue a degree as quickly as possible. So SPEA designed its course offerings to accommodate a variety of work-life situations. Many SPEA classes are offered in the evenings, online or as weeklong intensive courses.

And at SPEA, your studies aren't confined to the classroom. At SPEA, we know that hands-on experiences strengthen classroom work. So all of our programs include experiential learning, from workplace tours to internships to professional-level management experiences. Guest lecturers, many of them SPEA alumni, welcome continued conversations outside class.
