

WE LOVE AND VALUE CTS

Here's why we have included
CTS in our estate plans.

“Thriving communities need a central place where people of diverse beliefs can come together to talk in an open, community-based context. A real gem.”

– John Mutz, former Indiana Lieutenant Governor, president of Lilly Endowment, Inc. and chair of CTS Board of Trustees

“I’ve been inspired by the many men and women who have been so generous to CTS throughout its long history. I could never match the contributions of the Butler or Irwin-Sweeney-Miller families. But I do feel like I’ve joined their company by making a legacy gift.”

– Scott Seay, CTS Associate Professor of the History of Christianity and Director, Doctor of Ministry Program

“Christian Theological Seminary is located on the property my family owned for many years. I grew up in the house now known as The Hospitality House, which CTS has beautifully restored. I will be donating to CTS to continue to make my former home a gracious residence for students to pursue their studies and give to the community.”

– Alice O’Neal Dye, Indiana champion golfer and golf course architect

Your planned gift honors the past and ensures the future of CTS. Join the CTS Legacy Society today!

A PLANNED GIFT is an instruction that a portion of your estate goes to support the mission of Christian Theological Seminary. Planned gifts can take many forms: bequests in your will, gift annuities, charitable remainder and lead trusts, insurance, endowed gifts, and gifts of real property.

Benefits of including CTS in your estate plan

- You serve as an example, inspiring others to give
- You support the future of the seminary you love
- You leave a legacy that benefits CTS even after your lifetime
- You join the CTS Legacy Society, a great cloud of witnesses

THREE EASY STEPS to making a planned gift

- 1 Meet with CTS staff to explore planning options and clarify your intentions
- 2 Decide the amount and purpose of your gift to CTS
- 3 See your attorney and/or financial advisor to implement your gifts

To discuss options for giving that align with your wishes for CTS as well as your own estate planning, please contact Sarah Lund, Vice President for Advancement, Slund@cts.edu or 317-931-2311. Or visit www.cts.edu for more information.
